We buy us each a fast horse and buggy, and ride around town, drink cooktails and play billiards, until the bank deposit gives out, when we make out a printed report of seventy-three pages, furnishing you a complete topographical survey of your back yard, and a vast amount of statistical information with regard to the number of hens you are likely to have for the next forty years. We wind up the report with the announcement that the site of the hen-coop has been selected, and a call for another appropriation to prosecute the work, which we assure you will be done with "vigor." You place another thousand or two in bank, and we employ 200 hands at three dollars a day to transport seventy-five cents worth of lumber (which costs you under our management about ten times that many

He thus modestly excuses himself for epistolary brevity .- I meant to write you a long letter to-night, but unhappily I find myself placed in a singularly unfavorable position for writing with my accustomed force and perspiculty. My room is situated in a wing of the building. Just opposite is another wing, with a narrow court-yard between. There must be a concert or a circus, or some sort of a show in town to-night, for at a window immediately opposite mine a couple of very pretty what I would suppose to be chambermaids, have been putting on their clothes for the last hour, as if they were fixing up to go somewhere. This is very annoying to a man of family, and if it were not so far down stairs, I hour, as if they were fixing up to go somewould go and complain to the landlord It would require an individual of tremendous power of concentrating his thoughts to write an able letter under such circumstances. BRILLIANT STRATEGETIC MOVE OF AN EAST-ERN SHORE MILITARY COMPANY .- The Easton Star of Tuesday relates the following extraordinary military exploit upon the authority of

A short time ago there was raised a very handsome uniform military company in one of the towns in Worcester county. Some time after the company had become quite familiar with the drill, an oyster pungy from New York anchored in the waters of Worcester, and commenced catching oysters contrary to the laws of Maryland. The fact coming to the notice of the Sheriff, he forthwith went to work to capture the pungy. To "make assurance doubly sure," he bethought him that the new military company would be the best posse comitatus he could summon; accordingly the military was ordered out, in full uniform, properly officered and equipped, with "guns shotted" ready for action. Arriving at the shere, opposite the pungy, it was decided to put the military in ambush until the "overt act" was committed, in order that there might

The military did not have to wait long behind their masked battery, made of cedar bushes, before the overt act was committed. The New York captain, not having the fear of the Worcester Sheriff before his eyes, and being anxious to load his pungy, very soon put down his rakes, and commenced to draw up the contraband bivalves. This was the signal for the military to advance to the charge. The Sheriff having given the wink to the officer commanding the military, that gentleman gave the word-"forward-march"—and the company was seen on board of a batteaux, making directly for the "prize." In the meantime the captain of the pungy, discovering what was out, ordered his decks to be cleared and prepared for action, resolved not to surrender without a struggle worthy of the days of the immortal Paul Jones. When the military got within about 100 yards of the prize, the captain of the pungy, being without swivels or columbiads, drew out a piece of steve pipe, and placing it upon his "caboose" commenced to sight it at the military, which at once manifested symptoms of discomfort, evidently disliking such a terrible gun to be pointed directly towards them. The hesitation manifested by the military encouraged the captain of the pungy to press matters to extremities, and calling to one of his hands for a chunk of fire, he commenced to blow it, and the sparks flew in all directions This murderous proceeding of the savage cap-tain brought the military to their feet, ready for the most desperate deeds of daring. The moment was critical, with every advantage on the side of the captain of the pungy, who straightened up, and at arm's length prepared to apply the match. Simultaneously as he thrust the chunk of fire into the end of the stove pipe the military jumped overboard, and such a "sloshing about" and diving was never witnessed in the waters of Worcester. It is needless to add that, while the military were under water, the captain of the pungy hoisted sail and bid farewell to the waters of Maryland, and that since this marvelous adventure who vowed he would put a dagger into Abraham's bosom, if no one else was daring enough to commit President-leide, has been arrested in New Orleans for attempting to swindle his bearding house keeper with a worthless check on "his merchants," who were so unpatriotic as to deny all knowledge of him. ID H. H. Champion, of Dover, N. H., wagered with another gentleman that the Stars and Stripes would wave over the public buildings in South Carolina on the 5th of March. THE PLAIN TRUTH FOR MISSOURI .- In the Missouri State Convention, on the 14th instant, Judge Orr, delegate from Greene county, spoke some plain truths as to the plot of the secessionists. He said:

"It would be the hight of folly for Missouri to secede. Where one negro now escapes to lilinois, a dozen would escape, and instead of recovering half of them, we would recover none. * * * never expect to go out of the Union, and I will live in Missouri too. I tell you that I am going to stay where I am. I am going to stay in the Union. I am neither going South or North.
But I am told "You are going North." No, sir, I am not going to trot with Missouri over to any of them. Well, then, I am a coercionto any of them. Well, then, I am a coercionist? Let me illustrate by an incident in my own history. I once had two sons who took a notion to run away from me, and pretty soon one of them came back. What did I do then? Instead of shedding blood I shed tears, and the next morning I put him on a horse, and gave him another horse alongside, and a sum of money, and told him to go and bring back his brother. They returned, and I never thought of punishment. That's exactly the way I would treat our southern brethren. * * It was said by the gentlebrethren. * * * It was said by the gentle-man from Cole (Mr. Knott) that he would very much regret to stain his hands with his brother's blood. So would I. But I don't want my brother to stain his hands with my blood; and it may be necessary, possibly, to stain our hands with our brother's blood to save our wives and daughters."

The Memphis Appeal has settled the whole matter thus: "Under the operation of the two tariffs, presenting as wide a margin in favor of the South, the cute Yankees of the North are preparing to introduce their imports through southern ports, and thus stop the revenue with which Mr. Lincoln's "meal tubs" are to be filled. Thus they are driven either to recognize the independence of the Seuthern Confederacy, and establish commercial treaties with them, or else they must blockade the southern coast. But a blockade is as act of war, and generally is preceded by a formal declaration of hostilities, and a due notification to foreign Powers. But if this course be adopted, the Border States will revolt and break through the net which the Administration is weaving around them. The moment that the white sails of Lincoln's fleet shall appear at the entrance of the Charleston channel, or the angry prow of his frigates shall plow the peaceful waters of the Balize, will the blast of Davis's bugle be heard at Montgomery, and in thirty days thereafter Washington will be free—the enemies of the South will no longer hold a carnival on southern soil, and in a city which bears the name of the most venerated of southern men."

THE UNION FEELING IN NORTH ALABAMA .- The Tuscumbia North Alabamian of the 22d inst. contains the proceedings of a public meeting held in Frankfort, Alabama, at which the following resolutions, among others of a similar character, were

Resolved, That we approve the course pursued by our delegates, Messrs. Watkins and Steele, in convention at Montgomery, in no so-called Secession Ordinance. That secession is inexpedient and unnecessary and we are opposed to it in any form; and the more so since a majority of the slave States have Ordinance to the decision of the people is an out-rage upon our rights and liberty, and manifests a spirit of assumption, unfairness and dictatorship That our Congressional nominee, if elected, is to represent us in the United States Congress, and not in the Congress of this so-called "Southern Confederacy."

Barrancas, relates the following incident which barrancas, relates the following incident which occurred there:—"A man named Doyle, one of the workmen at the navy-yard, slipped over to Fort Pickens a few nights ago and come very near getting in before he was discovered. He had a bundle of rat-tail files in his pocket, and says if it had not been for a sergeant holding a lantern up to his face as he was going in the door, he up to his face as he was going in the door, he would have had every our saiked in twenty minutes. He was sent back by Slemmer, with the request that he be dealt with, as he did not wish to do anything that might bring about a collision. which was so much to be deprecated. Colonel Clayton sent a note in reply, by the hands of private Bullock, (who, by the by, has since been promoted to a corporalcy,) stating that he would punish Doyle, but just at this time he had too much need of his services in casting cannon balls. The conference took place just outside the fort.

The Milwaukie Sentinel relates that th pastor in one of the churches in that city, recently became aware that a young man of his congregation was forming bad habits. Meeting the stray lamb one night in the streets with some dissolute companions, the reverend gentleman attempted to dissuade him from going further, but the rowdies in company objected, and one of them struck the parson. The fellow had reckoned without act" was committed, in order that there might his host. In a moment the clergymen had thrown be no mistake about the proof, in the Court of off his coat and "sailed in." A very brief space of time sufficed for him to "wax blazes" out of the crowd, and having accomplished the feat, he quietly resumed his coat, and with it his equanimity. He was not molested further, we pre-sume. Whether he rescued the object of his anxiety from the possession of the party, is not

> A WEIGHTY DECISION .- The Supreme Court of California (Judges Field, Cope, and Balwin,) has affirmed the judgment of the court below, where by it was established that the owner of land in California under a patent from the United States owns all that grows upon or is buried within that land-owns from the center of gravity to the top of the highest tree-the same as in older States. In 1853 that same court decided that the minerals imbedded in such lands belonged to the State by virtue of Spanish-Mexican law and the principle of Eminent Domain. That decision is now com pletely reversed by a unanimous decision rendered on the 15th ultimo, and the right of the owner of the soil to the minerals contained therein declared absolute. The parties litigant were Moore against Shaw, and Fremont against Flower, and the point may now be considered settled.

SEASONABLE OPPOSITION -Col. Colt has an extensive greenhouse, in which January does business in successful competition with the summer months. In that greenhouse strawberries are flourishing at the present writing. The Times says that cucumbers are now plentifully produced, and bring, for the long variety, (from English seed,) fifty to seventy-five cents each. Peaches are now as large as walnuts, and grapes as large as rifle bullets. Figs are far advanced; pine-apples ripe; apricots, plums, beans, &c., &c., are a sight to behold; while roses and rare flowers of every variety are in bloom. Last March Mr. Stebbins sold $500 worth of cucumbers; this month he can sell $1,000 worth of that article. The grapes alone, in the hot and cold graperies, can produce

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges in the Loited States, and the greater part of whose hife has been spent in the hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep; great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness wish frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

Young Men and others who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt even when asleep, and if not curred, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply inomediately.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsy, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debi ity, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded—Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirita, Evil Forebodings, Aversion of Society, Self-Diritust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, etc., are some of the evils produced.

REJOICE IN HEALTH. Friend, do you sufter? Are you the victim of any of those numerous aliments which arise from impurity of the blood? What are they, do you sak? Rather ask, what are they not? The blood is the source of life and health, and it is the first element of our being to respond to any cause which affects the system, as the pulse infallibly attests. The ever prevailing Neuralgia, the irritating Erysipeias, the subtle Serofula, the agonizing Rheumatism, Nervous Debility, Dyspeyria, Liver Complaint with its torpor and dejection, and the numberless life that flesh is heir to, derive their hideous origin from the blood. Deal kindly these and gently with the blood. Use the vitalising resources of nature for its aid, and suffer us to commend to your confidence and use that truly valuable medicament known as MRS. M. INDIAN VEGETABLE DECOCTION.

With regard to this almost infallible specific popular sentiment has spoken in decided terms and the evidences of this great efficacy are sustained by constant avowals of curative effects and the happiest results from its use are after all other remedies and the best medical skill have failed.

Let us say, in conclusion, that certificates cures are not sought from the illiterate and superficial, but they are volunteered from the most respectable sources and justify the highest terms in which it is possible to commend so valuable a specific to public approval. We may add also that the curative properties of the medicine are equalled only by its restorative effects, the system recovering from disease with renewed constitutional vigor.
